ELIO'S LITTLE DISCOVERIES

Again: The Box with Two Plans

다시 이어 보는 차례를 정하는 순서

9세 · Day 028 · 함께 읽기 · 4장면

“Wait,” Elio said, closing the book on his knees. “I wanted a quiet place to read.” Bori lowered her wings. “I wanted to take a trip.” They looked at the box again. One box could hold two ideas, but the ideas needed room.

“You could try your boat first,” said Elio. “Then I would like a quiet turn.” He climbed out with his book. The cushion stayed inside. Bori waited until Elio stood beside the mat, then stepped into the box. Nothing had to be rebuilt.

Bori sat down and rowed with her wings. Elio stood beside the boat, holding his book. “A big wave!” she called. He lifted one paw and made a slow wave in the air. The floor stayed dry. Only their story was at sea.

Soon Bori stopped rowing. “Where are we going?” she asked. She had a boat, a cushion and a very good sound for splashing. She did not yet have a destination. Elio looked down at the book in his paws. “We could find one here.”
